

Based on what you've learned from the past two weeks, answer the questions below:

1. What course material or writing theories/concepts/skills/strategies did you find useful/effective? Why?

Found the classes insights to what constitutes as good and bad interview questions interesting; for, typically I find general and opened-ended questions to be least exciting and does not provide a lot of insight, but in allowing interview questions to be opened-ended, I've learned, allows the interviewee to express themselves freely and might allow some background, or tangential ideas to questions to follow up with.

2. What did you find confusing/difficult? Why?

I wasn't anything I found confusing or difficult during this two week sprint/timeframe.

3. Any questions or suggestions?
